

16/09/2015

Press Review

PRESS REVIEW

07:30 GMT, Wednesday, September 16, 2015

FFF Economy

TASS

Russia does not intend to hold negotiations on conditions of debt repayment by Ukraine

Moscow expects the debt of $3 bln will be repaid timely and in full, Russia's Deputy Finance Minister Sergey Storchak says.

CNBC

▶ US will likely get a rate hike tomorrow: UBS Chairman

This week it's all about the U.S. Federal Reserve. Markets are poised, financial leaders are tuned in and everyone is wondering... will the Fed...

>>> Currencies

MarketWatch

U.S. dollar weakens against yen, euro ahead of Fed decision

The US dollar was lower against the yen and the euro in rangebound Asian trade Wednesday, as many investors remained reluctant to take lopsided

Scoop

NZ dollar 'in holding pattern' ahead of FOMC

The New Zealand dollar rose after the latest GlobalDairyTrade auction and has held in a narrow range since then, with traders unwilling to make big bets ahead of the results of the US Federal Open Market...

Image: Top Videos

News.com.au

Australian dollar rises after weak US data

The Australian dollar is higher, after some weak US economic data dampened expectations of an interest rate rise by the Federal Reserve.

Bloomberg

Two Reasons the Fed May Hold Off on a Rate Hike

Bloomberg's Joe Weisenthal talks about what he's following ahead of today's 'What'd You Miss?' Watch the show with Joe and Alix Steel every weekday at 4 p.m. ET on Bloomberg. .

Politics

The Guardian

Pressure on Labour over EU as union vote sounds alarm

The prospects of Labour opposing British membership of the European Union, or adopting a position of neutrality, has grown markedly after the Trades Union Congress (TUC) voted to recommend Britain leave the EU...

DW

Austria introduces checks at Hungarian border

Austria has tightened controls at its border with Hungary, but has said that migrants will still be allowed to enter and be processed.

►►► Markets

Reuters

Gold languishes near one-month lows ahead of Fed meet

Gold struggled to break out of a tight range near its one-month low on Wednesday, as investors waited to hear on the outlook of U.S. interest rates from a Federal Reserve policy meet that kicks off later in the session.

The Wall Street Journal

Asian Stock Markets Bounce Back

Most markets in Asia climbed back from their lowest levels in years on Wednesday, ahead of an announcement from the U.S. Federal Reserve on whether it would raise rates for the first time in almost a decade.

>>> Opinions

Georgia McCafferty

Charted: The economic horror show facing Australia's new prime minister Malcolm Turnbull

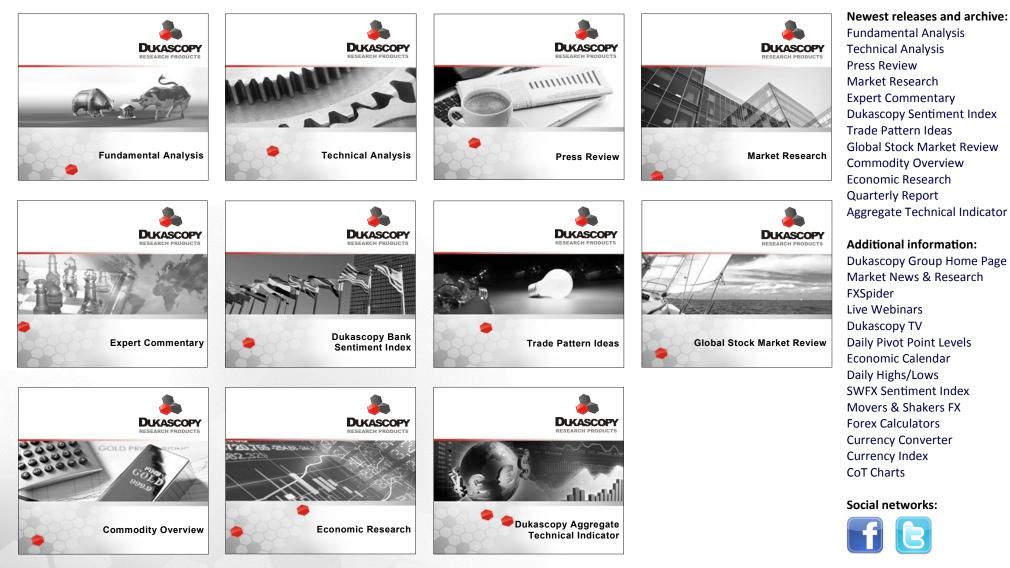

Australia is a nation breaking records at the moment. Not only has it just signed it's fifth prime minister in five years into office, it's clocked up 24 consecutive years without a recession—a feat unmatched by any other...

Nathan Sussman, Osnat Zohar

Oil prices, inflation expectations, and monetary policy

The 2014 decline in oil prices lowered short-run inflation. Before the Global Crisis, the medium-term correlation between oil prices and inflation was...

Disclaimer

Everything in this article, including opinions and figures, is provided for informational purposes only and may not be interpreted as financial advice or solicitation of products. Dukascopy group assume no responsibility for the completeness or the accuracy of any data contained in this article. Financial figures indicated in this article have not been verified by the Dukascopy group. Views, opinions and analyses are those of the author of the article, and are not endorsed by the Dukascopy group.

Dukascopy group waive any and all warranties, express or implied, regarding, but without limitation to, warranties of the merchantability or the fitness for a particular purpose, with respect to all information in this article. Dukascopy group shall under no circumstances be responsible for any direct, indirect, consequential, contingent or any other damages sustained in connection with the use of this article.