

Dukascopy extends innovative approach, opens China office

By Andrew Saks-McLeod on Wednesday, 07.02.14

Dukascopy Community Co aims to provide more convenience and excellent customer service to Chinese clients as the drive toward the APAC region grows among FX giants.

Entry into the much vaunted Asia Pacific region is a clear priority for a great many FX firms across the globe, with mainland China presenting itself as a land of opportunity with its vast and market-savvy potential client base, large trading volumes and lack of domestic FX firms, but restrictive government which commits large resources toward curtailing western influx of business.

Today, Dukascopy Bank has announced that it has achieved a milestone development in the opening of Dukascopy Community Co., a member of Dukascopy Group in Shanghai, China, following the Swiss bank's innovative approach to engaging traders.

The entity in Shanghai officially came into being on May 15, 2014, with the purpose of seeking to provide more convenience and excellent customer service to Chinese clients. The primary services offered at the office include technology, information, analysis, media support and services, promotion of FX Community Contests, introduction of various products of Dukascopy Group, and overview of Dukascopy's platform.

The primary services offered at the office include technology, information, analysis, media support and services, promotion of FX Community Contests, introduction of various products of Dukascopy Group, and an overview of Dukascopy's platform.

Dukascopy Bank does, however, wish to make clear that Dukascopy Community (Shanghai) Co. does not engage in regulated financial services and its related technical issues of Dukascopy Group.