▶▶▶ Economy

BBC
▶ Brexit: The phoney war
Returning to the UK from North America is to encounter an air of unreality. Britain has embarked on the biggest constitutional change in nearly 50 years - but you wouldn't guess it.

Reuters
▶ G20 a success for China, but hard issues kicked down the road
China is lauding its successful hosting of the G20 summit in scenic Hangzhou, with open confrontation largely avoided and broad consensus reached over the fragile state of the global economy and the need for a wide range of policies to fix it.

CNBC
▶ Santelli: Double bottom for pound
CNBC's Rick Santelli discusses the latest action in the bond market, and the U.S. dollar.

Bloomberg
▶ Richard Clarida: Markets Doing Well by Ignoring the Fed
Richard Clarida, global strategic adviser at Pimco, looks at the relationship of markets and the Federal Reserve and the problems with how the Fed communicates forward guidance.

▶▶▶ Politics

The Guardian
▶ Russia's leading independent pollster declared 'foreign agent'
Russia's main independent pollster has been declared a "foreign agent" after showing a drop in the ruling party's popularity before a major vote.

Japan Times
▶ Abe could play peacemaker role after Philippine president stirs anger, voices regret for Obama insult
The Philippines' new leader, Rodrigo Duterte, expressed regret Tuesday for comments in which he called U.S. President Barack Obama a "son of a bitch" as the two leaders sought to tamp down controversy over an incident that could also affect Japan.

▶▶▶ Markets

Business Times
▶ Iran supports US\$50-60 oil price, stability measures-state
Iran supports an oil price of US$50-60 per barrel and any measure to stabilise the market, state TV quoted the country's oil minister as saying on Tuesday.

Investing
▶ Oil prices plunge as output-freeze hopes fade: Brent falls 2%
Oil prices were sharply lower during North America's session on Tuesday, erasing all of the prior day's strong gains as an agreement between Saudi Arabia and Russia to stabilize the market stopped short of delivering imminent action to tackle a supply glut.

▶▶▶ Opinions

John Coumarios
▶ Helicopter money' may give Fed the inflation it wants
Eight years after the financial crisis, the world's central banks are trying to boost the global economy as much as ever.

Margit Molnar
▶ G20: Toward an innovation-based economy 2020
Innovation has been selected by the Chinese Presidency as a key theme for the G20. This move provides a new impetus to policy actions around the world
